Abstract

Writings, publications, correspondence, photocopies, manuscripts, notes, photographs, programs, ephemera, and other material documenting the lives and intellectual interests of partners and gay rights activists Michael Lombardi and Paul Nash. The materials relate in particular to their mutual interest in pioneer German gay activist Karl Heinrich Ulrichs, whose works Lombardi has translated. The collection also documents Nash's work as a newspaper journalist and editor, first at the Los Angeles Collegian and later at the gay newspaper Update. Subject and chronological files demonstrate the range of their interests and their involvement in the GLBT community in Southern California and its struggle for legal and social recognition.

Biography

Michael Anthony Lombardi was born in Hawick, Scotland, on August 11, 1947, the son of Antonio and Clementina (Morelli) Lombardi. He was raised in an Italian colony in Dublin, Ireland, and immigrated to the United States with his family in 1959. He received his primary and secondary education in Catholic and public schools in Lynwood, California. He interrupted his high school studies in Los Angeles and joined the U.S. Army in 1966, where he received his high school equivalency diploma. After completing his tour of duty, he received his A.A. degree from Compton Junior College, and entered the University of California Los Angeles (UCLA), where he graduated with a B.A. in German in 1973. He then entered the UCLA graduate program in German, spending his second year of graduate study at the Gesamthochschule Essen. He became a candidate for the M.A. in 1977, but did not take the degree. In 1983, he resumed graduate study at the ONE Institute for Homophile Studies Graduate School, earning an M.A. and Ph.D. in Homophile Studies in 1984 and 1986, respectively.

Lombardi first became acquainted with the writings of Karl Heinrich Ulrichs (1825-1895), the pioneering German theorist and activist for the legal and social rights of homosexuals, in 1977. From 1979 onwards he translated Ulrichs' works, which he and Paul Nash, his partner since 1972, published privately as "Urania Manuscripts". In 1990, he was approached by Vern Bullough, general editor of Prometheus Books' series on human sexuality, to translate the works of Magnus Hirschfeld. His translation of Hirschfeld's Die Transvestiten (1910) appeared in 1991, and of Hirschfeld's Die Homosexualität des Mannes und des Weibes (1914) in 2000. He has also published a translation of Ernest Borneman's Das Geschlechtsleben des Kindes (1985).

Paul Nash was born in Pittsfield, Massachusetts, on February 20, 1934. After graduating from highschool, he spent two years in the U.S. Navy, after which he attended college. In 1962, he moved to Los Angeles, where he was employed in hospital administration and where he met Michael Lombardi, who became his partner in 1972. During the 1970s Nash and Lombardi became increasingly active in civil and gay rights. In 1975, Nash entered Los Angeles City College to study writing, and became involved in newspaper journalism. He served as Executive Editor of the Los Angeles Collegian in 1978. From 1980 to 1983 he was also Los Angeles City Editor of Update, a gay newspaper serving San Diego and Los Angeles. He was editor and principal financial supporter of "Urania Manuscripts", which he and Lombardi founded to privately publish the latter's translations of the works of Ulrichs and other European writers on homosexuality. The couple also runs the Karl Heinrich Ulrichs website at <http://www.angelfire.com/fl3/celebration2000/>, which serves as a clearing house for current information on the study of Ulrichs and his contribution to the GLBT movement.

In 1988, Michael Lombardi and Paul Nash moved from Los Angeles to Jacksonville, Florida, where they currently reside.

Subject and chronological files demonstrate the range of their interests and their involvement in the GLBT community in Southern California and its struggle for legal and social recognition. The collection is arranged in eight series: (1) Michael A. Lombardi, (2) Paul J. Nash, (3) Karl Heinrich Ulrichs website, (4) Subject and Chronological Files, (5) Publications, (6) Photographs, (7) Audio, and (8) Ephemera and Memorabilia.

Series 1. Michael A. Lombardi

Date: 1731-2000 (bulk 1864-1982)

Extent: 6.1 linear feet

This series contains the writings, correspondence, academic and teaching, and personal papers of Michael Lombardi. The bulk of the materials consists of Lombardi's writings, in particular his translations of the works of Karl Heinrich Ulrichs and Magnus Hirschfeld. The series also includes papers, photocopies, notes and other materials relating to Lombardi's studies of the treatment of homosexuals in German society and literature, and extensive correspondence with other researchers on the subject both in the United States and in Europe.

Subseries 1.1. Writings

Date: 1731-2000 (bulk 1864-1982)

Extent: 3.7 linear feet

This subseries consists of Lombardi's writings. The bulk of the materials consists of Lombardi's translations of the works of the pioneer German gay civil rights activist Karl Heinrich Ulrichs; Lombardi also wrote his ONE Institute of Homophile Studies Ph.D. dissertation, as well as several articles and screenplays, on the Ulrichs' works. He also translated several other works on the history of homosexuals in the Germany and the Netherlands, and the writings of Jewish Holocaust survivors Liesel and Lore-Hermann Pintus. All these translations were originally self-published under the imprint "Urania MSS". His later translations, of Magnus Hirschfeld's Die Transvestiten (1910) and Die Homosexualität des Mannes und des Weibes (1914), and of Ernest Borneman's Das Geschlechtsleben des Kindes (1985), were published by Prometheus Books, which also issued The Riddle of "Man-Manly" Love, Lombardi's translation of Ulrichs' collected Forschungen über das Rätsel der mann-männlichen Liebe, the individual volumes of which had originally appeared under the "Urania MSS" imprint. The materials consist of photocopies of the original works, completed typescript translations, manuscript translations, notes, and other work papers. The subseries is arranged in six subsubseries: (1) Karl Heinrich Ulrichs, (2) Magnus Hirschfeld, (3) Liesel Pintus and Lore Hermann-Pintus, (4) Urania MSS, (5) Other Writings, and (6) Reviews and Royalties.

Subseries 1.1.1. Karl Heinrich Ulrichs

Date: 1864-2000

Extent: 2.2 linear feet

The German lawyer and scholar Karl Heinrich Ulrichs (1825-1895) was an early theorist and activist for the legal and social rights of homosexuals, and is often called “the grandfather of gay liberation”. This subseries consists of Lombardi’s translations of Ulrichs’ writings and other materials on Ulrichs by Lombardi. It is arranged in five sections: (A) Ulrichs’ texts and Lombardi’s translations; (B) Lombardi’s doctoral dissertation, based on Ulrichs’ writings; (C) Lombardi’s screenplays relating to Ulrichs; (D) other writings by Lombardi on Ulrichs; and (E) miscellanea. The texts and translations are arranged alphabetically by the original title of each work; the papers include photocopies of the original publication, typescripts, drafts, and notes. The dissertation files consist of several drafts of Lombardi’s dissertation. The screenplays files contain screenplays by Lombardi on Ulrichs’ life and of his work Raging Sword (Gladius furens), as well as notes and other materials from a class on screenwriting that Lombardi attended. Lombardi’s other writings on Ulrichs include articles, speeches, presentations, and several drafts of a biography/chronology. The miscellaneous materials consist of drawings and other images of Ulrichs, and notes and other materials that could not be assigned to a single work.

Subseries 1.1.2. Magnus Hirschfeld

Date: 1898-1999

Extent: 0.2 linear foot

This subseries consists of materials relating to Lombardi's translations of various works by the pioneer German sexologist Magnus Hirschfeld (1868-1935). Lombardi initially translated works by Hirschfeld that concerned Ulrichs; later, at the instigation of Vern Bullough and Prometheus Books, he undertook translations of two of Hirschfeld's major works, Die Transvestiten (1910) and Die Homosexualität des Mannes und des Weibes (1914). The materials in the subseries include finished translations of two of Hirschfeld's writings on Ulrichs, work papers for Lombardi's translation of Die Transvestiten, and a photocopy of Die Homosexualität des Mannes und des Weibes.

Subseries 1.1.3. Liesel Pintus and Lore Hermann-Pintus

Date: 1945-1982

Extent: 0.4 linear foot

In 1979, Lombardi was engaged by Hilda Goldsmith to translate the memoirs of her mother, Liesel Pintus, and a novel by the latter's mother, Lore Hermann-Pintus, both German Holocaust survivors. The writings have no homosexual context. This subseries consists of photocopies of the original German texts and typescript and manuscript translations.

Subseries 1.1.4. Urania MSS

Date: 1731-1987

Extent: 0.7 linear foot

Lombardi's translations of Ulrichs' works were self-published, with the editorial and financial support of his partner, Paul Nash, under the imprint "Urania MSS". This imprint also included Lombardi's translations of Hirschfeld's works on Ulrichs, the Pintus Holocaust memoirs and novel, and works on homosexuality by other European authors such as Karoly Maria Benkert, who first used the word "homosexual" in its modern context, Anna Rueling, considered the first lesbian activist, Reimar Lenz, L.S.A.M. von Roemer, Rob Tielman, and Adriaan Venema. The works focus in particular on the history of homosexuality in Germany and the Netherlands and the Nazi persecution of homosexuals. The materials in this subseries consist of "master" copies of completed translations, with some photocopies of original publications, notes, and manuscript translations, as well as the business records of the imprint, including invoices, receipts, orders, expenses, correspondence, and draft publicity materials.

Subseries 1.2. Correspondence

Date: 1975-2000

Extent: 0.4 linear foot

This subseries consists of Lombardi's correspondence. The bulk of the general correspondence consists of letters from fellow researchers in the United States and Europe relating to Karl Heinrich Ulrichs, and the history of homosexuality in Germany and the Netherlands. The correspondents include Kent Gerard, Hubert Kennedy, and Jim Steakley in the United States, and Giovanni Dall'Orto, Wolfgang Kirchstein, and Eckhard Prinz in Europe. The materials also include personal letters from friends, including Los Angeles gay activist Don Amador, and from Lombardi's aunt Elena in Ireland. The Prometheus Books / Vern Bullough correspondence consists of letters relating to the publication and scholarly reception of Lombardi's translations of Hirschfeld's works, as well as Prometheus Books' 1994 publication of The Riddle of "Man-Manly" Love, Lombardi's translation of Ulrichs' collected Forschungen über das Rätsel der mannmännlichen Liebe. The materials include a large number of personal letters from Bullough.

Subseries 1.3. Academic Studies and Teaching

Date: 1972-1987

Extent: 1.7 linear feet

This subseries contains materials relating to Lombardi's formal academic studies, through 1977 at UCLA, and from 1983 at ONE Institute for Homophile Studies Graduate School. The materials for Lombardi's studies at UCLA include papers, photocopies, bibliographies, and notes for courses in German language, literature, and film. The materials for Lombardi's studies at ONE Institute include similar materials on the history of homosexuality in Germany and the treatment of homosexuality in German literature, focusing on the period before 1900. The Curricula files contain additional papers, photocopies, and notes on homosexuality in Germany in the 18th, 19th, and early 20th centuries; the dates of the materials they contain suggest they were created in the interval between Lombardi's studies at UCLA and at ONE Institute. The subseries also includes a copy of Don Amador's 1977 Gay Studies guide, materials relating to Lombardi's participation in the Gay Student's Union at Los Angeles City College in 1979/80, a file of correspondence with the academic administration at ONE Institute from 1982 to 1986, note cards on German literature and bibliographic cards for Lombardi's dissertation, and reading lists for courses in the German Homophile Movement and Homophile Literature that Lombardi taught at ONE Institute in 1984 and 1987.

Series 2. Paul Nash

Date: 1975-1987

Extent: 7.5 linear feet

This series consists of materials created solely, or principally, by Paul Nash. The bulk of the materials relates to Nash's writings, in particular his work as a newspaper editor and journalist, beginning on the Los Angeles Collegian, the Los Angeles City College student newspaper, then as Los Angeles City editor of Update, a gay newspaper for San Diego and Los Angeles. The materials include an incomplete run of the Los Angeles Collegian from October 1976 to June 1978, as well as investigative and subject files, correspondence, news stories, news releases, clippings, postcards, flyers, and other materials used to provide information for each issue of Update. The series also includes materials used by Nash to research and write his M.A. thesis on the Treatment of Homosexuality in the Editorials, Political Cartoons and Opinions in the Los Angeles Times 1984, and a small number of files relating to Nash's personal life and academic studies.

Subseries 2.1. Writings

Date: 1982-1987

Extent: 3.3 linear feet

This subseries contains Nash's thesis and his writings on Karl Heinrich Ulrichs.

Subseries 2.1.1. Thesis

Date: 1984-1987

Extent: 3.1 linear feet

This subseries contains the materials for Nash's ONE Institute Graduate School M.A. thesis on the Treatment of Homosexuality in the Editorials, Political Cartoons and Opinions in the Los Angeles Times 1984. These materials include drafts, forms, and various keyword and cross reference indexes, as well as clippings of the articles analyzed in the thesis. The clippings extend from January 1984 through December 1987, an indication that Nash originally intended to expand his thesis into a doctoral dissertation.

Date: 1976-1983

Extent: 4.0 linear feet

Nash began regular newspaper work as a student at Los Angeles City College, where he served on the student newspaper, the Los Angeles Collegian, from October 1976 through June 1978, the last five months as Executive Editor. From April 1980 through December 1983 he was Los Angeles City Editor of the bi-weekly gay newspaper Update. The files include an incomplete run of the Los Angeles Collegian from October 1976 to June 1978, as well as investigative and subject files, correspondence, news stories, news releases, clippings, postcards, flyers, and other materials used to provide information for each issue of Update.

Subsubseries 2.2.1. *Los Angeles Collegian

Date: 1976-1978

Extent: 1.0 linear foot

As a student at Los Angeles City College, Paul Nash actively participated in the college newspaper, the Los Angeles Collegian. He first appears on the masthead as a staff writer in early October 1976, and from late October 1976 through January 1977 served as City Editor. In February 1977 he again appears as a staff writer. He became Arts and Entertainment Editor in September 1977, and from February to at least June 1978 served as Executive Editor. This subsubseries includes an incomplete run of the Los Angeles Collegian from September 1976 to June 1978, as well as Nash's stringboard for Spring 1978.

Subsubseries 2.2.2. *Update

Date: 1978-1983

Extent: 3.0 linear feet

In the early 1980s, both Nash and Lombardi worked for Update, a bi-weekly newspaper for the GLBT communities in San Diego and Los Angeles. Both appear for the first time in the masthead for the issue of April 4, 1980, Nash as Los Angeles City Editor, and Lombardi as a Los Angeles staff writer. Lombardi's name appears for the last time in the issue for August 21, 1981, although he continued to work on the "Calendar" column until 1982; Nash continued as Los Angeles City Editor through December 1983. This subsubseries consists of two sets of files: issue files and research files. The issue files, created by Nash, are arranged chronologically, and contain correspondence, news stories, news releases, clippings, postcards, flyers, and other materials used to provide information for each issue, in particular the "Calendar" column. Each piece is marked with the number of the issue in which the information it provided appears; items whose information is repeated in more than one issue may be found in the folder for any of these issues. The research files consist of a small number of files, most created by Nash and containing notes in his hand, relating to specific, usually long-running, issues covered by the Los Angeles desk of the newspaper, in particular, relations between the GLBT community and the Los Angeles City Police Department (including police harassment of gays in Griffith Park), and the controversy over the 1981 order by California Governor Edmund G. Brown's staff prohibiting the showing of public service announcements produced by Jerry Wheeler Productions promoting mental health for homosexuals. The bulk of the contents of the Investigative file also concerns this controversy. The subseries also contains files on gay activist Don Amador's run for the Los Angeles City Council, the 1981 and 1982 Christopher Street West parade and festival, photographs (many of Los Angeles City Councilwoman Peggy Stevenson) published in the newspaper, and the Gay Press Association.

Subseries 2.3. Academic and Personal

Date: 1975-1987

Extent: 4 folders

This subseries contains a small number of files relating to Paul Nash’s private and academic life. The Personal file includes a 1979 letter from the Los Angeles Police Department relating to a confrontation between Nash and two police officers in Griffith Park, materials relating to the 1986 general election, and a congratulatory note in the California Medical Review employee newsletter congratulating Nash and Lombardi on their participation in the mass “marriage” at the 1987 March on Washington. Two files derive from a speech class Nash took at Los Angeles City

College in 1977; they include extensive course materials and note cards for four speeches, one autobiographical, the others on Alex Haley's television program Roots, journalism and the gay press, and the Panama Canal. The Abigail Van Buren file contains correspondence between Nash and Van Buren relating to his MA thesis on articles relating to homosexuals and the GLBT community printed in the Los Angeles Times, and her positive treatment of homosexuals in her "Dear Abby" newspaper column.

Series 3. Karl Heinrich Ulrichs Website

Date: 1994-2001

Extent: 1.25 linear feet

In 1999, Lombardi and Nash created a website at <http://www.angelfire.com/fl3/celebration2000/> commemorating (in 2000) the 175th anniversary of the birth of Karl Heinrich Ulrichs. This series consists of email messages, originally collected in eight binders, to Lombardi and Nash relating to the commemoration. The series also includes a folder of correspondence and other materials relating to the commemoration of the 1995 centennial of Ulrichs' death. The website remains active, as a clearing house for current information on the study of Ulrichs and his contribution to the GLBT movement.

Series 4. Subject and Chronological Files

Date: 1969-2000

Extent: 3.8 linear feet

This series contains subject and chronological files. A number of the subject files were created by Lombardi and Nash; the identity of the creator of a particular file is indicated when this is know. The remaining subject files were created by ONE Archives staff from materials found unfolded but together. The files include correspondence, clippings, photocopies, brochures, and notes. Subjects of particular interest include AIDS, the Gay Holocaust, and police harassment. Lombardi and Nash also created extensive files documenting all programs of GLBT interest broadcast on Los Angeles-area television. Several of the chronological files for 1984 and 1985 were created by Lombardi and Nash; the remaining files were created by ONE Archives staff from materials found loose in the collection without apparent context. The files include flyers, newsletters, postcards, brochures, solicitations, and other materials of an impersonal nature. The materials relate to a wide variety of Los Angeles-area GLBT businesses, social and political organizations, bars, events, and publications, and indicate the extent of Lombardi and Nash’s involvement in the local GLBT community.

Series 6. Photographs

Date: 1978-circa 1987

Extent: 0.2 linear foot

This series consists of photographs and slides found loose in the collection. The slides date from 1978 and document the Los Angeles City College Gay Student Union and the "No on 6" campaign. The majority of photographs document Lombardi and Nash's home in Los Angeles, several of Lombardi's speaking engagements, and the 1984 and 1985 Christopher Street West parades. A large number of negatives, for which no prints exist, appear to picture Lombardi and Nash with members of Nash's extended family, and may derive from an extended visit the pair made to New England in the mid 1980s.

Series 7. Audio

Date: 1977-1983

Extent: 5 audiocassettes + 4 microcassettes

This series consists of audio recordings made by Lombardi and Nash between 1977 and 1983. They include Lombardi’s interview with Floyd O. Crosby on film director F. W. Murnau, probably made in conjunction with a course on German film Lombardi took at UCLA (see Subseries 1.3, above); Lombardi’s presentation on “Karl Heinrich Ulrichs, Gay Hero”; Nash’s “Gay Speech”, given as part of the speech class he took in 1977 (see Subseries 2.3, above); and their joint presentation on “Karl Heinrich Ulrichs: A Hero for the 80s”, given at the 9th Annual Conference of the Gay Academic Union in November 1983.
